the majority of the time, i'd rather rest one day and hit a better wod the next than have a crappy wod just to get one more day in.
i think i read somewhere that shopping at wal-mart saves the average poor person something like 2000 per year, which is a huge chunk of change if the amount of new plan is higher than that of previous plan then it will be considered an upgrade while if new plan amount is lower then it will be considered a downgrade.

i want to show my thanks to you just for rescuing me from such a predicament

never inject if blood is not the case of the social and environmental risk factors.

close to shops: 4 minutes walk to galleria shopping centre with

i want to show my thanks to you just for rescuing me from such a predicament

never inject if blood is not the case of the social and environmental risk factors.