Police were requested to check an abandoned property on the east end of Camrose as the caller believed people may be living there without permission.

It wouldn't be until 62 years later in 2007 that a surprise email from Lewis...